

Joanna in New York Good Day and Welcome to the Final Stage of the 2019 Giro d'Italia, a 17km ITT in lovely Verona. This Stage is brought to you my Miss, er Misses Anne Elk as it is "thin at one end, much much thicker in the middle, then thin again at the far end." 01-Jun-2019 15:11:10

Joanna in New York Individual time trial on the Torricelle Circuit (the same as in the World Championships), covered counter-clockwise. The first part is on broad, straight boulevards, followed by an ascent sloping for 4.5 km at 5% in a series of steps, on narrower roadway. Split time is taken at the summit, where mountain points are up for grabs. The route then descends for 4 km, still on broad and straight roads. The last 3 km along the city streets, with some sharp bends, lead all the way to the finish in Piazza Bra and the Verona Arena. 01-Jun-2019 15:11:39

Joanna in New York The final kilometres are on broad, straight urban avenues. The final time is taken in Piazza Bra, before entering the Arena. The home straight is 150 m long, on 6.5 m wide asphalt road. 01-Jun-2019 15:12:22

06:01:22

Tim in KY Racing starts at 13:45 CEST, but podium fight doesn't start until 16:34.

02-Jun-2019
06:03:17

Tim in KY Four teams have two riders in the top 20, but only one team has three riders, EF1. Although there are a couple of places where the order of the top 20 may change, barring a DNF disaster, the composition probably won't change.

BusterSci Greetings Tim

02-Jun-2019
06:49:28

Tim in KY Morning.

02-Jun-2019
06:50:25

BusterSci The babbling internet is abuzz about the Lopez incident, split between "fan deserved worse" and "assault is assault, Lopez should be punished."

02-Jun-2019
06:55:21

Tim in KY I'm on the latter side.

02-Jun-2019
06:56:30

 BusterSci With some nuance, I'd say "Sure, the fan deserved worse, but Lopez wasn't the person to administer it." By worse I don't mean a more thorough beating, I mean it would do the sport a favor to see the policing force involved pick the fan up and toss him in a paddy wagon. Aside from that, I agree Lopez should also be punished.

 BusterSci Hi, Mons

 Mons Soseman Hello

 Mons Soseman Got a few minutes now, and several more later. Sounds like a Dude report

 Mons Soseman Love the start by Joanna. Thanks Jo.

 Mons Soseman Hows the weather up there, Bustersci

 BusterSci Lovely, Mons. Mid 70s, sunny, no humidity. We have had little storminess this spring, but...ummm...sorry about the rains.

 Mons Soseman you guys are some major drips...

 Mons Soseman So we had some personnel issues at the school this past week, which sucked up all of my time...

 Mons Soseman sorry to have missed most of the Giro. Started good.

 BusterSci Boring first 12-13 stages. Then interesting. Other than assault, yesterday was a bit of a damp squib.

 Tim in KY Still 18 minutes to first rollout.

 Tim in KY I will be gone for the good part later.

BusterSci So barring disaster, Carapaz looks safe. I don't think Roglic can take 81s on Nibs, but he will move past Landa.

02-Jun-2019
07:32:17

Mons Soseman All as expected, then, unless it's not...

02-Jun-2019
07:32:54

Mons Soseman The last stage ITT can be a Giro classic...

02-Jun-2019
07:33:14

Mons Soseman remember that fall within a few feet of the line about 10 years ago?

02-Jun-2019
07:33:39

Mons Soseman 2008 finish in Rome I guess.

02-Jun-2019
07:33:55

BusterSci Mollema is unlikely to move up, as he'd need 3 minutes on Landa. Yates could move up past Majka and Lopez. Majka could jump Lopez. Sivakov is likely stuck at 9th.

02-Jun-2019
07:33:55

BusterSci Zak, Carthy and Dombrowski likely safe at 10/11/12.

02-Jun-2019
07:34:18

Tim in KY I don't expect more than two people to move up in the top ten. Dead flat would have probably led to more interesting results.

02-Jun-2019
07:39:23

BusterSci Roglic almost certainly will move up. The Lopez/Majka/Yates grouping is the only other with change possibility. I don't think Yates is on form to gain a minute on Majka. I don't know the relative TT skills of Majka and Lopez, so no prediction there.

02-Jun-2019
07:45:22

BusterSci So...I agree, Tim.

02-Jun-2019
07:47:13

Tim in KY First rider is off. He's 6 hours + off the lead.

02-Jun-2019
07:48:22

BusterSci He's not moving up.

02-Jun-2019
07:49:23

BusterSci Campenaerts is the first rider of interest. He should set best time and sit comfortably until Roglic rides.

02-Jun-2019
07:50:32

BusterSci He's been saving energy for this stage. Roglic has been riding for GC. I think Campernuts would have won the previous without his horrible mike change, so I expect him to win.

02-Jun-2019
07:51:49

BusterSci He starts in 25 minutes

02-Jun-2019

07:55:56

Tim in KY Nice weather but it looks like a bit of wind.

02-Jun-2019
07:58:26

BusterSci I'm curious how much of Roglic's weakness in the final week was due to his crash or due to the fact that he isn't a climber first.

02-Jun-2019
07:58:57

BusterSci I think crash.

02-Jun-2019
07:59:07

BusterSci Nibali, on the other hand, lost the race trying to get Roglic to work. If he had not let Carapaz take close to 3 minutes over two stages, he'd be riding to defend the top step today.

02-Jun-2019
08:00:10

Tim in KY I have to keep the sound off. Any interesting news from Flo?

02-Jun-2019
08:00:31

BusterSci I'm off, too. Although I think I hear Frau moving so maybe that'll change.

02-Jun-2019
08:00:55

02-Jun-2019
08:51:04

02-Jun-2019
08:52:21

Katie Lane In addition to the Lopez accident, Roglic got penalised 10 seconds yesterday b/c fans pushed him (something he had not control over). I think if Lopez was not penalised, Roglic should not have been. Or, the converse -- if Roglic WAS penalized, Lopez should have been also.

02-Jun-2019
08:53:35

BusterSci Lopez lost loads of time. The jury may have considered that penalty enough. Roglic was assisted. Two very different race outcomes.

02-Jun-2019

BusterSci On the other hand, Lopez assaulted a fan. That's bad stuff.

BusterSci Durbridge, that is.

02-Jun-2019
09:05:28

BusterSci Cyclists, I have a question. On a motorcycle it's taught that if you need to make a quick turn right, you need to bump the handlebars left. That forces a lean that makes you go right quickly. Is the same true when cycling at speed?

02-Jun-2019
09:09:18

BusterSci I have done it on motorcycle. At highway speeds it's like a quantum leap. You're on the other side of the road faster than you know what happened.

02-Jun-2019
09:09:57

SFinAus Don't know, Buster. I've never heard that nor done any such thing. However, I'm not a speedy rider and don't try to corner quickly

02-Jun-2019

09:15:50

bikerabe motorcycles achieve incredible lean angles on modern tires. Skinny tired bicycles get all the cornering needed by leaning in and stablizing the bike.

02-Jun-2019
09:16:04

BusterSci But at least according to Wikipedia, the font of all truth, counter steering is valid on a bike.

02-Jun-2019
09:17:19

Katie Forgot Password well, then.

09:18:16

BusterSci Flo discussing Lopez right now

02-Jun-2019
09:18:36

Katie Forgot Password I just looked for some news on that ... so Lopez did not get fined/punished?

02-Jun-2019
09:19:06

BusterSci No, he did not.

02-Jun-2019
09:19:19

Tim in KY Nope.

02-Jun-2019
09:19:19

Katie Forgot Password so... if Roglic had stopped his bike and clocked the fan, then he wouldn't have been penalized, either, I supposed.

02-Jun-2019
09:20:00

BusterSci Again, I think it's unsatisfactory to compare incidents.

02-Jun-2019
09:20:34

Katie Forgot Password (snort, the "pilot fish")

02-Jun-2019
09:20:43

BusterSci My initial reaction was "Go get him, Superman!" On further reflection, he should be penalized, and the rules are clear on what the penalty is. I may dispute the penalty, but he should have been penalized.

02-Jun-2019
09:22:24

BusterSci I think there needs to be better logic between time penalties (or points), fines, and ejection. Roglic got a time penalty because he received assistance on the climb without trying to dissuade the fan. This seems proper.

02-Jun-2019
09:24:13

BusterSci Proper in that gaining advantage should be punished through time loss.

02-Jun-2019
09:24:38

Katie Lane Any fan who interferes with a rider should be arrested and fined. Or at least beaten to a pulp by other spectators around him.

02-Jun-2019
09:25:14

Katie Lane It's not feasible to put barriers on all the climbs, and even barriers don't stop idjits.

02-Jun-2019
09:25:43

Mons Soseman I get confused between right and left... does that make me an idjit?

02-Jun-2019
09:26:34

Tim in KY Okay. I'm off to museums.

02-Jun-2019
09:26:42

BusterSci Have fun, Tim.

02-Jun-2019

♡ 30 💬 33 people are talking about this

Charlie in Tenn Wiggo said something like that they should get the spectator and Superman together to shake hands and show that fans make mistakes and riders do as well. Wiggo was basing this on fans make the sport and there is no way to control every inch of the route.

02-Jun-2019
09:28:57

BusterSci In first grade our classroom had signs for the cardinal compass points on the four walls. Also "Right" was on the south wall and "Left" was on the north wall. The front of the classroom was the west wall. So when we did "right/left" exercises, Sister Mary Louise had to turn us all around to face the east wall so the signs would be right. My overly mechanical brain assumed that meant right and left only worked when you faced east. I always know my compass points, so I have to mentally turn east to get my left and right correct.

02-Jun-2019
09:30:15

BusterSci Wiggo can be a total idiot. But that is exceptionally wise of him.

Charlie in Tenn There is a board game called Robo Rally. Essentially, you plan the movement of your robot pawn by placing cards (turn to the right, forward, turn to the left, backwards, etc). It is amazing how many players kinda do a little wiggle in their seat as they try to plan their moves. After a few plays I finally realized that to turn right (rotate in the same spot), it doesn't matter which way you are facing, Right is right and left is left. 02-Jun-2019 09:38:04

Katie Forgot Password I'm just too lazy to go get the laptop that has my password stored on it ... 02-Jun-2019 09:38:59
